CENSURABLE ACTION.

The action of the New Orleans Grand Fury in falling to find indictments against the men who instigated the Parish Prison lypching, places this Government in most uncomfortable position. The Jury's justification of its finding appears to be because "the act seemed to involve the entire people of the parish, so profuse is their sympathy and extended their connection with affair." Sympathy should never be taken into consideration when facts are presented. It was not the business of the Grand Jury to consider sympathy at all, The inciters and leaders of the mob were known, and there was no lack of evidence that they had committed violence. There was proof enough for indictments, and the innocence or guilt of those indicted should have been left for the petit juries to decide. The whole complication is worse than ever before, and Mr. BLAINE's position is anything but enviable.
